TO START BIG MILL. Cargo of Lumber Will Be Sufficient to Begin With.

By the time the first cargo of lumber arrives, and it is due in a week or ten days, the mill of the Thames River Lumbar company in East New London will be ready for operations. All of the machinery has arrived and is being rapidly installed.

At first about 25 men will be employed, but this number will be increased from time to time. For the present only circular saws will be used, but later on these will be supplemented with band saws.

A cargo of lumber for the company arrived there Monday morning and work was immediately started unloading it. Most of this lumber is to be used in completing the construction of ing it. Most of this lumber is to be used in completing the construction of the mill, which has been delayed several days by its non-arrival, it being due there March 20. The first cargo of lumber to be carried as stock for the mill will arrive in about ten days. The arrival of a motor which is considerably overdue and caused some delay is being awaited and will probably arrive in the course of a day or two.

AT POLI'S.

A bill which proves most pleasing this week at Poll's is the farce Charley's Aunt, which is capitally presented by the Poll Players. The three acts of this laugh provoking play are all cleverly staged and the players are most agreeably cast. There is no end of fun throughout the many peculiar situations and their result keeping the audience interested and well entertained.

Wilson D. Stedman plays Lord Fan-Wilson D. Stedman plays Lord Fancourt Babberly and gets roped into impersonating Charley's aunt, a role which he finds large opportunities in and makes the most of them. As Charley, Clyds M. Shropshire does well, while Lawrence Dunbar as Jack Chesney is, as ever, clever and entertaining. J. N. Booth and Farrall Mc-Knight have pleasing roles and as Col. Chesney and Stephen Spattigue they make ardent love to Charley's aunt. The latter is particularly clever in his The latter is particularly clever in his ersistent courtship. Emma Hayden as the real aunt gives Emma Hayden as the real aunt gives a fine presentation of the part and helps out in the funmaking by assisting in the embarrassment of the makebelieve aunt. Victoria Montgomery as Amy and Sue Pisher as Kitty were very good, as was Virginia Chauvenet, the other members of the cast giving the proper support to make the play a success. The audience was kept in laughter from start to finish and took occasion to manifest their pleasure by much applause. There are interesting moving pictures which fill up the moving pictures which fill up waits between the acts.

MEMORIAL SERVICE OF M'ALL AUXILIARY For Miss Huntington and Held at Her Late Home.

A special meeting of the McAll auxiliary in memory of the late president. Miss Mary L. Huntington, was held Tuesday afternoon at the Huntington home on Broadway, where so learn home on Broadway, where so over the proposed new road on the morth side of Haughton cove Thursday. On completion of the preliminary survey the question will be again submitted to the departed mistress. As the first vice president, Miss Sturtevant was unable to be present, Mrs. William Carr of Poquonoc, formerly of Norwich and still an officer in the auxiliary, conducted the beautiful and impressive service. After a few appropriate and sincere words of tribute by Mrs. Carr, a beautiful Scripture passage was read by Mrs. Howe, followed by prayer by Mrs. Carr. Letters of sympathy and of a sense of personal loss from five of the officers of the national association were read by the secretary and treasurer. These is came both as personal tributes and in an official capacity representing the whole association. Several members of the auxiliary were called upon and spoke lovingly of Miss Huntington words which were in the thoughts of all the others. They dwelt upon her quiet and retiring nature and yet unflinching acceptance of any necessary duty, of her worth as a gental neighton cove Thursday. On completion of the tunited to the voters of the town at a special meeting. The expectation is that only one special meeting will be necessary to settle this question, and also to take action upon the request by the city of Norwich to close an old road and open a new one in connection with the construction of a new dam and reservoir on Stony brook.

AT THE AUDITORIUM. Vaudeville and Meving Pictures.

There is a bill of four vaudeville numbers and inviting moving picture films at the Auditorium which makes a strong offering for the first of the week and drew large houses for the Monday performances. Foremost on the bill as something entirely new was "La Perche Equipoise," a thriller as performed by Delmore and Oneida, the woman member of the team doing some nerve racking stunts at the end of a pole balanced by the man. Because of the low files on the stage the act has to be done right down among the audience in the open space close to the stage. The graceful and thrilling novelty is good for a big hand at each performance.

Catherine Cronin & Co. put over a sparkling little comedy offering in the sketch, His Room Mate, which keeps the laughs coming all the way and carries the house with the cleyer trio in the company. Pauline Barry, singing comedienne, did not arrive in time for the matinee, but was on hand for the evening, adding a prettily costumed number to the bill, and pleasing with her topical songs. In the monologue line, Billy Cole is the typical "Weary Willie" in makeup, talk, and songs. Among the moving pictures the haseball game and the Vicar of Wakefield are of particular interest.

Going to Danielson. Vaudeville and Meving Pictures.

Going to Danielson. A considerable delegation of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps is expected to go to Danielson this afternoon for the celebration of the 20th anniversary of McGregor coaps. At the last meeting of Sedgwick corps 26 of the members expressed their intention of going. They are to leave on the 12.45 trolley.
